

CAPTAIN BOCK SAYS 3 KNIVES WERE HURLED

Three knives, with blades opened, were hurled from the car yesterday afternoon at the automobile of Captain Charles H. Bock, he said today. They struck the body of the car, he said, one sticking in the running board.

"The knives came with a shower of vegetables and other missiles," Bock asserted. "They were good big ones, one of them with opened blades was nearly a foot long."

He said he was unable to ascertain who threw the knives.

"They got back in the crowd and sometimes it's almost impossible to discover the offenders," he explained. "When one of the garbage cans on a corner was opened it was found filled with cobblestones."

While waiting to be called as a witness in the Noddman trial today, Bock told of the knife-throwing incident to Judge Church.

Community Club Is For Law and Order

The Community club of East Oakland has adopted and sent to the city council the following set of resolutions:

"To the City Council of Oakland: Whereas, in regard to the present strike situation a certain element has attempted to perpetrate upon the city of Oakland a spell of mob violence; and

"Whereas, according to the best information we were able to receive, we have been led to believe that this mob element is not representative of the labor class of Oakland, but is composed of individuals governed by motives that are contrary to the best interests of the good of the city, the general public and even to the class which they represent. Be it

"Resolved, that the Community club of East Oakland, public health and safety in maintaining law and order, in their efforts to dispense this element that is creating these disturbances and endangering the lives and property of the citizens of Oakland."

Detective Secures His Son's Release

ALAMEDA, Oct. 3. — Recinal Brown, 19-year-old son of Detective George H. Brown of the Alameda police department, was one of the arrested ones in the strike captures of the Oakland police last night. The boy claims that he was merely a spectator and that he suddenly found himself under arrest. He was given his liberty this morning. Detective Brown went to Oakland this morning to investigate the case, and after hearing the boy's story secured his release.

Man With Bottle Among 5 Arrested

Five men were arrested this forenoon for violation of the federal injunction. One of them, giving the name of Theodore J. Cookney, a candy maker, had a bottle marked poison. He said it contained antipison. It is the theory of the police that he was going to try to throw it into a car. The contents will be determined.

received any written assurance from anyone of the willingness of the carmen to do anything other than that which they struck for.

"In stating this we have in mind the communication from Mayor Davis and others in which representatives of the carmen's union assured the gentlemen signing the letter that they would recommend to their associates that they return to work and leave all claims to arbitration provided that the company first agreed to certain things."

"On the other hand, we have put ourselves on record many times. We have refreshed your memory on the matter concerning the re-employment of the men who struck and referred to our letter addressed to Mayor Davis and Hon. E. P. Marsh and others October 1. In it we stated that certain of the striking carmen have disqualified themselves from ever receiving further employment with the company. We contend that we have no assurance should we enter into contractual relations with those men who broke the last contract, that they would keep a new one."

"We stated and repeat now that the proper course was for the men to return to work, relying on that sense of fairness that the company has always shown and with the assurance that any request for a conference with them would be respectfully considered in the future as in the past be immediately granted."

"SAN FRANCISCO - OAKLAND TERMINAL RAILWAYS."

"By order of the board of directors."

"W. R. ALBERGER, Vice-President and General Manager."

The sessions of the joint conference committee were adjourned following the refusal of the company to deal with the men as a union in any way.

NEW POLICEMEN ON DUTY TONIGHT

An announcement was made by Commissioner Stone that about twenty-five of the hundred new officers authorized by the city council will be on duty by tonight. On the morning of the 4th, the Board, Mayor and Chief of Police J. F. Lynch are observing the statutory age limit of from 25 to 35 years in choosing officers, and are insisting on five years' residence in the city. No examinations are being held other than informal questions by the chief, the men being given instructions and placed on duty with experienced men who will act as mentors in police duties for the time being. Chief Lynch expects to fill the hundred places in three days, according to present applications coming in.

W. R. ALBERGER has notified Chief of Police August Vollmer of Berkeley that he will send to him all motormen employed on the Key Route and street car lines in the city for the physical and psychological tests which will be required within the city. The emergency ordinance requiring the examinations by the police department of car operators which it was expected would be passed by the city council this morning to be put into effect at 10 a. m. did not come up but will be acted upon tomorrow morning. An emergency ordinance requires four votes. The absence of Councilmen Charles D. Heywood and George Schmidt did not give the remaining members of the city body sufficient votes.

MAHON DECLINES TO CALL OFF STRIKE

"I have no power to call the strike off."

With this statement W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees set at rest at Washington today the report that the international would interfere in the local situation. Mahon has instructed Gavin McNab of San Francisco, an attorney of the company, that the men are willing to arbitrate their disagreement with the company, which declined, in a letter to the strikers, to take back the men preparatory to such arbitration.

"I do not know what the outcome of the offer will be," said Mahon. "The men are willing to arbitrate, though they would be unwilling to return to work, previously willing to do so. I have no power, however, to call the strike off."

Rioting broke out last evening when a crowd attacked one of the armored cars which the company has been running up and down Broadway during the day. Several shots are said to have been fired from the car, but the police investigated and could find no firearms therein.

This rioting occurred about 5 o'clock. Several arrests were made. When three men, two of them sailors, were taken into a police automobile the crowd surged about the machine and several stones were thrown. The police got away safely with their captives. This was at Thirteenth and Harrison streets.

LONG POLES ARE USED UPON CARS

Succeeding cars as they turned in toward the central barns were mobbed. Long poles were used in an effort to wrench off the wire screening of the cars which protected the strikebreakers within. Stones were hurled against the cars from the sidewalk and from buildings which they passed. There were no serious injuries; though one or two persons were struck by flying stones.

Despite the failure of the police to find guns in the car or Thirteenth street a number of bystanders declared they saw strikebreakers with weapons. Among these witnesses was Lewis Stadelman, 45 Fairview avenue, Piedmont. Stadelman said the shots heard on Thirteenth street below Harrison came from the platform of the car. On his word the police pursued, halted and searched the car without avail.

The last of the cars reached the barns at 6 o'clock with the whole of the route traversed by the armored coaches during the day strewn with debris. The crowd drifted toward the lake and portions of it as far as the central barns, but no further attack was made.

The general strike committee is composed of seven delegates from each of the central councils. It was decided to merge the three groups into one body, the three groups than to have the strike handled by co-ordinate agencies. Copies of the telegrams were also forwarded to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, the Great Western Power Company and to the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways.

This move will tie up all power used in the moving of street cars and trains of the Key System, and will cut off electrical energy utilized

SETTLE STRIKE BY CONCERTED ACTION, PLEA

RICHMOND, Oct. 3.—A move to bring about the end of the car strike by concerted action of the Eastbay cities, aided by advice of the State railroad commission, was made by the Richmond city council last night at a joint session with the Chamber of Commerce.

The council also enacted an ordinance permitting any man who has had ten days' instruction in car operation under a man who has had at least a year's experience, to serve as a member of a car crew.

The council adopted a resolution directing Mayor James Long to get in touch with other Eastbay mayors and arrange a conference to formulate a policy on the strike.

Another resolution directed an impartial investigation of the claims of the railroad company that the granting of the increases demanded by the men would necessitate a raise in car fares to eight cents. City Attorney Hall was directed to arrange a meeting with the railroad commission at which data bearing upon the company's claims would be examined and recommendations made. The company will be invited to have a representation at this session.

NON-MAGNETIC SHIP GOES ON FINAL VOYAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—With enough provisions aboard to last two years and outfitted for a voyage of 55,500 miles, the noted non-magnetic ship, "Carnegie" was ready today to leave Washington on a task of tracing through the lone spaces of the South Atlantic and Pacific Oceans the devious curves which the magnetic pole lays out for the compass needle to follow.

This is the fifth and probably the last trip of the Carnegie on that errand, which has already taken her through 200,000 miles since she was last ten years. She has neither steel nor iron in her hull or fittings.

San Diego Youth is Sought in Oakland

Where is Claude McDowell? The police of Oakland and a half-hundred other California cities have been asked to find the missing 19-year-old boy. His father, a San Diego resident, has left no stone unturned to find him since he disappeared on May 21 from his home. He is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes. Moving pictures, ranch, garage or almost any other employment might have attracted him, his father says. "Do not take him into custody, if you find him," is his father's plea to the police. Chief James Patrick asks that he be informed if the lad is discovered.

Steamer in Distress Off Atlantic Coast

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 3.—The steamship Lake Pearl, Captain G. C. Stacey, was in distress today two miles southwest of the Cape Cod lighthouse with her propeller and wireless carried away. The ship has dropped anchor and is awaiting assistance. A naval cutter has been rushed from here.

Union officials Jordan with an intention to strike was called as a result of the union's jury decision yesterday relative to the death of six men who had passengers at Charming and College avenues when a Key system train ran them down. In the statement today, union officials held that the decision, holding the traction company responsible for the accident, makes it incumbent on them to pay for a non-compulsory strike so long as the power companies continue supplying the trolley concern with electricity.

The resolution follows:

"The motion is made that organizations furnishing means of transportation to the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways have been declared unfair to organized labor. The motion is made and carried that organized bodies, jointly concerned in furnishing and transmitting power to and from San Francisco for the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, all departments hereby organized as members of the different organizations have conspired as peaceful, law-abiding citizens and as such we will not permit ourselves to be a part of the system operated by incompetent, feeble-minded persons, and we feel to continue to work under these conditions would be placing us in a position of being a party to the committing of murder."

"We hereby take this action on account of the company's jury verdict, which places the blame of the death of six peaceful, law-abiding citizens on officials of said company."

"J. P. FIFIELD."

STRIKE MAY BE CALLED AT WILL OF COMMITTEE

That the strike may be called at will of the committee is Hurley's statement this morning. He said he began today between the chosen electrical workers and every craft associated in the traction or power industry.

According to a statement of C. A. Jordan, former business agent of the union, the electrical workers employed by the traction company were not to be called off their jobs until October 27, when the thirty-day strike, provided for in the agreement between No. 232 and the traction company, came to an end. The union has already notified the company that it regards the agreement null and void. Jordan said that agreements between the union and the power companies would end June 1, 1935, with a sixty-day clause providing for the finish of the contract. This sixty days was to come at the end of the contract time, Jordan said.

Notice of the impending spread of the strike was given the city council this morning by C. W. Lohr, secretary of the power and transportation bodies organized by the union. He presented the resolutions calling a walk-out at noon tomorrow.

"This morning," Lohr said, "I was asked Commissioner Fred Shoberg."

"Tomorrow at noon," said Lohr. "He refused to discuss the matter further."

TWO DIE WHEN PLANE FALLS AT SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3.—Major D. H. Crissey, pilot, and Sergeant (first class) Virgil Thomas, observer of Mather field, Sacramento, Calif., were almost instantly killed late yesterday, when their biplane, carrying a mail in which they were riding, dived into a small pond near the Buena Vista landing field here.

The aviators were just completing the first lap of the International aerobion derby and were the ninth of the east-bound entrants to reach this city, the first over-night stopping place.

As the huge machine approached the field Major Crissey was seen to signal a greeting to his brother aviators who had preceded him. He started to circle the field preparatory to landing. As he was completing the circle Sergeant Thomas was seen to stand up in the observer's cockpit and he, too, waved to those on the field. With the engine shut off the machine had started to turn into the straight-away when it suddenly turned and dived, nose down, 155 feet into the pond of mud and water.

Aviators and spectators rushed to the scene and helped to remove the machine and extricate the aviators. Both were unconscious when taken from the pond and both were dead when they arrived at hospitals.

Crissey Warned Not To Attempt Flight

Of all entrants in the transcontinental air derby, few are as well known as San Francisco bay as was Major D. H. Crissey, commandant of Mather field, killed when his biplane plunged into a shallow pond at Buena Vista field, Salt Lake City.

Major Crissey married Mrs. Beatrice Galt, a San Francisco society girl and sister of Horace Galt, wealthy importer. Mrs. Crissey came from Sacramento to witness the start of the flight. She opposed her husband's entering the race and officers, who said that Major Crissey's experience was not sufficient to warrant his entering such a long and strenuous competition. He had but six hours flying to his credit before the present flight.

The major was 34 years old and a native of Michigan. Formerly he was at Fort Rosecrans, serving as adjutant with the rank of captain. He entered the air service in 1918 at Rockwell field, but did not begin actual flying until four months ago. At about that time he was transferred to Mather field.

Major Crissey's mishap was due, according to other officers, to too sudden a turn in attempting to land. The machine turned into a nose spin and was too close to the ground to right itself. Major Crissey's observer, Sergeant Virgil Thomas, also was killed.

Major Crissey's airplane was the ninth to reach Salt Lake. Just before fore he crashed to the ground he was seen waving a greeting to other pilots who already had landed.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

LEADER WERE TO TRUMP

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 3.—A spectacular rescue of Second Lieutenant T. Hynes and Second Lieutenant T. K. Matthews, three miles out in Lake Erie, by the Canadian steamship Fairfax featured the battle waged with elements by nine entrants in the transcontinental air derby who started from Buffalo this morning for Cleveland. After Lieutenant Hynes and Matthews had been given up as lost by air officials at the Mather field here the wireless brought the news that the steamer Fairfax had picked up the aviators three miles off Ashtabula when they were forced down by the intensity of the storm.

The wireless message said that the lake was very rough and that the aviators were in grave danger when rescued. An effort was being made to salvage the plane, the message said, but on account of the roughness of the water it was feared that it would be impossible to save it.

At 8:55 Lieutenant Newman, in No. 10, arrived at Ashtabula after a wild flight which had taken him all the way across the lake to Canada and back again. When he finally made the landing here every drop of gasoline in his tanks was exhausted, and for the last few miles his plane was driven by the wind.

Lieutenant Pearson and Captain Donaldson reached Mather field earlier in the morning, both reporting rough voyages.

Another of the nine planes leaving Buffalo made a forced landing at stop 147 on the New York Central east of here, neither aviator nor passenger being injured.

Four more planes were reported down in the vicinity of Erie, Pa. In despatches received at the local control, but no details were given.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Unable to battle the elements, four of the transcontinental aviators who left Buffalo this morning landed near here a short time later. The planes were driven by Colonel Benedict, Lieutenant Roulett, Lieutenant William C. Brown and Lieutenant Jones. If the weather clears before night, they will proceed on their way to Cleveland.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 3.—As a result of three aviators being killed and six machines wrecked yesterday in the first day of the cross-country flight between Minneapolis and San Francisco, flight officials today wired all control stations to use the utmost care to prevent more accidents. Aviators will be warned against taking unnecessary risks. There are several planes still to hop off from here today.

BIRD STUDENT COMING BACK FROM ALASKA

BERRYESSA, Oct. 8.—Tollie Beck, who has been making a special study of bird life along the Alaskan coast during the past two months, is expected home within two weeks. This information was received by Mrs. Beck today in a letter from her husband. Mr. Beck is considered one of the greatest living authorities on certain classes of sea birds, especially the tubenoses, and has traveled very widely over the western hemisphere pursuing his researches. His visit to Alaska has been most successful. He has been able to gather much valuable information and has collected many rare specimens. His friends are looking forward with much interest to his homecoming.

Locally the fruit harvest is now practically completed, and proves to be one of the best in the history of the industry. In reviewing the season, orchardists have every reason to congratulate themselves. With few exceptions they have had the most profitable year in their experience, and have been more than compensated for the losses entailed by the great storm of a year ago. Although prices were generally small and shrink more than usual in the fall, the total damage was immense, and prevailing high prices for both prunes and cots have made this a record year in a pecuniary sense for the grower.

The game will mark the return of the university to the American game.

FAINTING MAN IS RESCUED BY MAT CHAMPION

SAN JOSE, Oct. 8.—Samuel Mc Kenzie, suffering from a heart complaint, dropped at the street corner ahead of "Strangler" Ed Lewis, the world-famous wrestler, yesterday. Lewis picked the man up like he would a child and carried him up a flight of stairs to the office of his wife, Dr. Ada Scott Morton Lewis, in the Twelfth building. The police had been called in the meantime to take the man to the county hospital, and when the question of finances was raised Lewis promptly dug down into his pocket and remarked, "I'll pay all expenses, take him to the county hospital."

Council Hears Boilermakers' Version Secretary Wolff Makes Comparisons

"If we lose these strikes it means that our pig-headed employers will have the 'one big union' to fight," declared E. B. Wolff, secretary of the Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union, today before the city council, when he charged that the present strikes were being waged because they had been forced by employers of labor. The shipworkers' strike, he said, was forced on the men of that craft through connivance of government officials and employers. He said that arrests of union men in connection with the street car strikes were contributing to the triumph of radicals in the labor movement behind the "O. U. U." movement and said that unless the American Federation of Labor bodies continue in power the radicals will usurp control of the labor situation.

Wolff was introduced to the city council by President G. E. Powers of the Boilermakers, and announced that he desired to give the council information of value as to present labor unrest.

"MAY BE COMPARED," he said. "Union men have been arrested and beaten by the police," he said. "Of course, I know that the police have a hard task in situations like this to keep order; we concede this, but at the same time the fact remains that union men are held on $500 bail for trifling offenses and ignoring the order of Mr. Van Fleet, I understand that the motorman who drove the death car in the accident the other day, however, is out on $500 bail."

"Now, as to the Metal Trades strike, we feel that we, the trades-builders, are the life of the town; our payrolls keep business going. We feel that the metal trades were forced out on strike; I will explain my stand in this."

We had a conference; all the labor bodies, under the guidance of government officials, and asked a dollar an hour. The employers made a counter-proposal of eight cents an hour raise all round; it was unanimously accepted. Then, at this important moment, the government pulled the chestnuts out of the fire for the employers. The employers figured that if we voted for eight cents they would accept much less. They knew the street car strike was coming, of course, for their stool pigeons are in all the unions, and that we would have to be laid off anyway, so they forced the strike.

"I believe the majority recognize that the A. F. of L. is one of the best friends of the employer. If it cannot function the radical can start one big union' every A. F. of L. failure in a strike adds arguments for the radicals to work with."

"If we don't win these strikes our pig-headed employers will have 'one big union' to fight."

"We are peaceful. Of course, maybe a few boys in the crowd threw rocks at the cars; we don't countenance it; a good many men, too, when arrested, gave their occupation as boilermakers who were not. The majority is for peace, and we are not radicals. But the radical danger is ahead."

A resolution was read from the steamship clerks' protesting armed guards on cars. The city clerk was instructed to answer this, stating that the guards had been disbanded two days ago. A letter was read from the Central Labor Council asking that fifty of the 100 new police to be recruited be union men. This was referred to Mayor Davis.

Chamber Drive Passes 1000 Mark Entire Quota Is Sought by Tonight

SAN JOSE, Oct. 9.—The thousand mark was passed in the greater Chamber of Commerce membership drive today and it is predicted that the 1200 quota will be passed tonight with another day yet to go. The 151 civic patriots constituting the campaign teams turned in 341 memberships yesterday at noon—the high tide for any one day's work thus far in the drive.

But they are out to beat it today and again tomorrow when the campaign closes. If they do even as well in the remaining two days they will have knocked their goal of 1200 memberships into a cocked hat, and will have passed the mark set by Fresno last June, when 1600 members were enrolled.

As it stands, the goal of 1200 is assured. It can be won in a walk. But it is no longer the goal that will satisfy the workers. They are after Fresno's seal.

NO DOUBTERS LEFT.

This was indicated at yesterday's meeting, when enthusiasm was brimming over. At the outset some of the workers were doubtful that San Jose could reach its goal of 1200. Now there are no doubters. They know it will be done, for several of the biggest concerns in town have not yet reported their membership subscriptions. These will help swell the total, and the prediction is being freely made that it isn't going to be such a trick after all to get as many civic workers for San Jose as there are in the town that made the raisin famous.

Ferdinand Canelo, who held the day's big record Monday and Tuesday was displaced yesterday by E. E. Chapin and his team, which turned in 28 memberships, bringing their total to 72. Mr. Canelo still holds first place for the drive to date, however, having turned in 18 yesterday, bringing his total to 81.

Captain Bothwell's team eased into second place for the day yesterday, reporting 27 memberships, making a total of 71 which is third place in the drive standing. Another big total was turned in yesterday by John Crumney's team, which reported 22 memberships secured.

The big feature of the day, however, and one that came in the nature of a surprise, was the report of a special committee composed of Charles M. O'Brien, G. N. Herbert and Albert Ilanetz, who were named to interview some of those expected to subscribe heavily to the organization. They reported, through Mr. O'Brien, a total of 107 memberships, and said they were only about half through.

S. J. CHURCH SURVEY TO BE U. S. MODEL

SAN JOSE, Oct. 9.—The religious survey about to be undertaken here will be used as a model throughout the country in the inter-church world movement. Dr. J. P. Stanley of San Francisco stated today in addressing pastors and church workers from all parts of the county attending a meeting of the local survey committee. Dr. Stanley was recently released for survey work by the California conference of the Methodist church. He stated that this county having both an urban and rural population, was selected as a model county for survey purposes and all of the problems would be worked out here.

It was decided to make the San Jose committee responsible for surveys in Santa Clara, Milpitas and Alviso, as well as San Jose. Committees were named to take care of all of the other towns in the valley.

Miss Magee Makes Debut At the Palace

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Magee of Redwood Alder Farm are to send out invitations to the number of five hundred, for a brilliant ball November 4, the Palace Hotel to be the setting. At this affair the young daughter of the house, Miss Elizabeth Magee, will make her formal debut to both Eastbay and San Francisco society. All of the debutantes of this season just past are to be guests. It is to be one of the loveliest parties of the winter, Miss Magee being one of the most favored of the 13 debutantes. This will be the only coming out party to be given at the Palace, invitations so far announcing similar affairs at the Fairmont.

A trio of brides were the honor guests this afternoon at a beautifully appointed tea over which Miss Doris Bornemann presided as hostess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bornemann in Yerkes Heights. Autumn foliage and a profusion of living blossoms ornamented the living rooms. The guests of honor were Mrs. Ward Higgins, formerly Marjorie MacGowan of this city; Mrs. Charles Lewis Clifford, who was Madeline Ross, also of Oakland, and Mrs. Frank Macdonald Ogden (Alice Butane), who has been entertained at a number of smart

Poor tea costs more per cup than good tea.

That's the money cost. Poor tea has a health cost too—it's full of tannin which is all right for tanning leather, but bad for the stomach and nerves.

Good tea—Schilling Tea—is the tea for enjoyment, health and economy.

There are four flavors of Schilling Tea—Japan, Ceylon-India, Oolong, English Breakfast. All one quality. In parchment-lined moisture-proof packages. At grocers everywhere.

Women's Clubs Prepare for Stockton Rally

By EDNA B. KINARD

The executive meeting of the board of directors of Alameda District, California Federation Clubs, in Stockton for Saturday, was called at the psychological moment. It is easier to go to Stockton than to town. The officers of the wide territory are inviting all clubwomen to join them for the important conference and the Philanthropic Club is making it a most festive hospitality. So it will be a large contingent of delegates who will travel Stocktonward on Saturday morning, leaders from San Leandro, Hayward, Fremont, and other clubs joining the original group which will assemble from Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda.

The hostess club has planned a noon time feast for the guests to administer to the inner woman of all those who will become their guests. By every sign the October board meeting will take on the appearance of a regular district convention.

For one reason there is the consideration and presentation of the tentative plan for county federations, auxiliary to the district, which is advisory to the state and general bodies. A committee whose personnel includes Miss Jennie Farrington, president, San Francisco district; Miss Jessie Lee, secretary, San Francisco; and Mrs. R. R. Rogers, have prepared the outline for the smaller units which will be discussed. It is emphasized that organizations with a country have the same general problems and interests more intimate than those in larger groups, and for this reason some form of clearing house should be provided.

Mrs. Aaron Schloss, president of California Federation of Women's Clubs, will be a Saturday afternoon speaker, going from Berkeley for the day session. The morning will be given over to reports of officers and presentation of the year's programs by department chairmen. Mrs. E. P. James will make a special feature of a country club work to which the federated clubs are pledged this season.

Mrs. Claude Leech who has been on the Atlantic coast through the mid year, returned to her Costa home yesterday and will immediately assume active direction in the district of which she is president. She will preside at the Saturday conference.

When Mrs. A. P. Black of San Francisco and John P. Irish of Oakland met at the banquet of the League of Nations there is apt to be rather an interesting program. This is to happen on Tuesday afternoon in Covenant hall, with the Stockton of the Santa Clara district. In addition to the consideration of both sides of the peace plan, there will be an address by Dr. Harkness, and a program of music offered by Mrs. Harry Cobb and Mrs. Aaron Jaffe.

From entertaining themselves, Hillside Club members have turned to entertaining their children under a plan that leaves not one of the youngsters out. The program even includes a play and a story for the people of high school and university age. Yesterday all the children of the members were summoned to the North Berkeley clubhouse to the time she spent with the Indians in Alaska. One tribe formally adopted her, bestowed upon her an Indian name and now tribe sisters are making her an elaborate ceremonial robe. The program was in charge of Mrs. C. W. Whitney. Later the juvenile Hillside will be divided into sections according to age and inclination. A dancing club, parties of various kinds, and a big Christmas celebration are being arranged.

The big social function of second district, California Congress of Mothers, is the annual reciprocity luncheon which draws representatives from all of the seven counties included in the important organization over which Mrs. H. Tardy of Oakland presides as president. Saturday, November 15, is being reserved for the feast this year with San Francisco as the chosen place. Elaborate plans are being worked out for the affair which will find its brilliant setting at the St. Francis hotel.

Mothers and daughters will meet at the Baby Welfare Center in Plymouth Center tomorrow morning, but it will be the mothers who will be taught. The Friday morning clinic urges mothers to bring their little folk under six years old for weighing and measuring tests and physical examination by physicians and nurses. The young girls at the University High School who have learned needlecraft tomorrow morning will offer for exhibition a display of their handiwork which mothers are urged to see. Forty tables were reserved for bridge.

Mrs. George B. Dinsmore left for New York today and will be in the east for the next two months.

Mrs. George Hall, assisted by Mrs. Frank Prussia and members of the mystery booth committee of the West Oakland Home Doll show gave a card party this afternoon for that section. Forty tables were reserved for bridge.

DARING REPORTER INTERVIEWS LYNCH

Details of police for strike riots and the wheels of justice at the city hall stood still, all because a student reporter on a paper published at the Technical high school had dared to interview the "Police beat." He rushed in where they feared to tread—and got by with it.

Chief of Police J. P. Lynch was in the very middle of rushing out police details together with Captain Walter J. Petersen and Charles Beck, when the high school youth appeared. Dodging the cautions of detectives and other help, he burst into the chief's presence, notebook (badge of his reportership) in his hand.

"Chief, I represent the Technical high school paper," he demanded. "I want an interview from you on what you think of the school bonds."

"No—need your exact words—don't say that," the chief insisted. "I don't look here, a few words don't mean much to you, but this means an awful lot to me—to land an interview from the chief of police."

Lynch looked up and laughed. "Let the strike wait a minute, gentlemen," he said, and gave his attention to the youth. "I am for the school bonds," he carefully declared, "and always for more schools—schools are a great thing and we need them. They turn out very bright young people; the kind we have to have. More power to the school board."

"Thanks, chief," said the daring one, and disappeared in search of Mayor Davis. Lynch resumed the police details.

U. C. Golden Bear to Be Returned Stanford Men Bar Campus Raids

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 9.—Thrift of the Golden Bear of the University of California's athletic rallies by a group of Stanford students last Sunday night has brought drastic measures to prevent any future recurrence of the incident. The student council, the administrative body of the students, adopted a resolution that the Bear should be returned to California with apologies from the Stanford student body, and voted that any future invasion of the California campus by Cardinal students for a similar purpose would be followed by immediate expulsion from the university. The invasion of the campus by the Stanford students was in direct violation of an agreement made this summer between Presidents Wilbur of Stanford and Wheeler of California, to the effect that invasion of the rival campuses would be discontinued.

Strike Threatens Story Writers Authors Are Urged to Stock Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Short-story writers should spend the present time stocking up with manuscripts, is the opinion of Gladys E. Johnson, San Francisco authoress, following announcement that several dozen popular magazines published in New York City were held up this month because of a printers' strike.

"Either stock up or go to work," is the advice of Miss Johnson, who thinks the present situation may force some authors and authoresses to find themselves without the necessary market owing to suspension of publications.

"People must read, publications will be resumed soon. Authors must write and if they can't sell their stories because of no market, they'll have to go to work. Being forced to work, say in a new school sewer, may give some authors a better perspective on the life of which they are writing—it will bring them out of the cramped, condensed life of plugging away at a typewriter and may be the real making of a writer. However, I do not think there will be a very great hiatus in literary bankrolls, if there are such things, as people must read and Gladys Johnson is a former San Francisco newspaper woman, but at present is one of the most popular contributors to short-story magazines.

DOGS IN PARKS TO BE 'PINCHED'

Dogs running loose in any city park hereafter are liable to be "pinched." An ordinance, providing for the impounding of any dogs whether they be licensed or not, running loose in city parks, went into effect today. The ordinance was placed before the city council by Commissioner P. J. Morse at the request of the park department, following complaints that dogs had destroyed much lawn and shrubbery by digging holes in various city parks. Under the law park attendants, if they decide by City Attorney H. L. Ilagan, could drive the animals away, but had no authority to kill or injure them. The ordinance gives the poundmaster authority to take up the animals.

Under the new law the dogs, once impounded, can be placed in "quarantine" and examined for disease before their release can be obtained by their owners.

YOU have your own reasons for preferring Hickory Garters for your children. Won't you be good enough to write us and tell us what they are?

We have youngsters of our own. Some of us are watching the "second generation" spring up. We've kept close to childhood—we've studied children and they've taught us a great deal. Especially, how to make the most satisfactory and most comfortable garter for them—Hickory.

But, we're interested in hearing from you about your children and their experience with Hickory. You may help us to serve you still better by writing us a few lines. It's our ideal to give you the best garter value obtainable. Your word of suggestion is welcomed. A line of approval from you will be shown to our thousand, happy workers here.

HOTEL MEN IN U.S. OPPOSING BANKERS' PLAN

Plans of the American Bankers' association to launch a big European tourist business drive, through an extensive campaign to boost the sale of travelers' checks issued by that body, have been held in abeyance following a protest made to the association by the Northern California Hotel association, of which John P. Shea is secretary.

At a meeting of the Pacific Coast Hotel association held at Portland September 23, a resolution was introduced by Shea and unanimously adopted by the delegates protesting against the announced intention of the American Bankers' association to inaugurate a campaign to promote the sale of travelers' checks, on the ground that such action would hurt the business of the hotels. A threat was made by the hotel men to issue their own travelers' checks, in reply to the protest of the hotel men, the American Bankers' association, which has just concluded a convention in St. Louis, has replied to the effect that it is the desire of the bankers of the country to cooperate with the hotel men and that no action will be taken by members of that body to promote the sale of travelers' checks until a conference with representatives of the hotel business is held.

In part the reply received by Shea from Seward Prosser, president of the Bankers' Trust company, says: "It is our earnest desire at all times to co-operate with hotel managers and it seems most desirable that the matter be further considered in conference between repre-

DOCKAGE SITE'S VALUE $800,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Cost to the State in condemning 7,000,000 square feet of space on the Islals Creek dockage site, on which a judgment was handed down yesterday by Judge John Hunt, is estimated at a little more than $800,000. It is said that private corporations have placed the value of the property, considering its possibilities for exploitation, as high as $3,000,000.

There are 126 separate parcels, besides portions of twenty-two city streets, included in the condemned property. In Judge Hunt's judgment were included twenty-eight parcels at a total allowed valuation of $200,922.02. Of this the State will pay $137,102.31 in cash from the proceeds of the sale of harbor improvement bonds and the remainder will be paid in improvement bonds which the property owners have agreed to accept at par.

THE NEW OSGOOD LENS CRAWATH LONG DISTANCE TYPE

The Demand for This Lens Continues the Heaviest on Record

BIG sales do not always prove superiority, but the demand for the Osgood Lens under California's new anti-glare law, which is being enforced by the police to the very letter, seems more than significant. The Osgood has not only passed all requirements and tests of the State Motor Vehicle Department, but tens of thousands of users are enthusiastic about it.

AND the reasons are just these: The Osgood Lens not only stops the glare and saves light being wasted and diffused, but it throws the light by deflection in controlled rays forward and downward onto the road so you can see every ditch and rut and even people standing by the roadside. This latter, as every motorist knows, is one of the meanest tests of a road-light we have.

THE Osgood Lens makes the road safe not only for you but for those coming toward you. Never mind what old lenses you may now have on your car, get the Osgood Lens at once and be on the safe side as well as the bright side.

NO lens that cuts your light or breaks up the rays can ever satisfy your real need for night driving. You don't need dimmers with Osgood Lenses—and you save all the light there is. You actually get 74% more road brightness. Motorists who were disposed to criticize California's new state law are now glad that it happened.

TELL your dealer that what you want is the Osgood Lens; and stick to it. He will be glad to get them for you, though the chances are he has them in stock. Prices $3.15 to $4.75, according to size.

DEALERS: You'll find real lens-profits in the Osgood. It is the unquestioned National Lens Standard. It out-sells all others put together, and you don't have to carry a bewildering multitude of different sizes of different makes. Osgood's satisfy every size and every requirement. Complete stocks now ready for instant delivery.

THE program for the balance of the week contains the usual number of A and D attractions. Alice Joyce appears in a second big screen feature, "The Winchester Woman," and a vaudeville act, "The Little Princess," which has a particular appeal for the little folk and is intensely interesting to the grown-ups. The star will remain at Ye Liberty for the entire week, opening at the Sunday matinee and concluding on Saturday evening. There will be matinees on Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The current attraction at Ye Liberty is Guy Bates Post in "The Masquerader." Post has an opportunity to display his histrionic talents in a manner seldom afforded an actor of his caliber. He plays a dual role, that of John Chichester, member of parliament and an addict of narcotics, and John Loder, a struggling Canadian journalist, who is Chichester's cousin and a physical replica. The adventures of the two form an interesting plot and Post is supported by a splendid company, offering his production in a Richard Walton Tully scenic display.

Following Little Mary McAlister will be "Fanchon and Marco in 'Let's Go'."

"SPORTING CHANCE"
Four stars, Isabel Clayton, Jack Holt, Anna Q. Nilsson and Herbert Hastings, cast in a story of adventure, have been drawing crowds to the Franklin Theater this week to see "The Sporting Chance."

Isabel Clayton plays the role of Carey Trent, a girl quick to carry out every impulse which suggests itself to her. Her first impulse is to reform a man whom she believes is a notorious convict who has escaped from prison, and she enters him as her chauffeur. Next her impulsiveness causes her to attempt to trap a blackmailer and vamp the admirer of her pretty step-mother, but these many pursuits are decidedly wearying and she is aided to accept assistance in carrying them out.

Jack Holt as the escaped convict chauffeur gradually introduces into the hero of the story a help out a good job into the last lap. Herbert Hastings has the role of Peter Brent and Anna Nilsson takes the part of Pamela Brent, his pretty second wife.

PROBLEM PLAY AT BROADWAY THEATRE.
A play with Leah Baird in the title role, will be seen at the Broadway Theater today, together with "The Forfeit," a fire-run picture here.

Both screen attractions come under the category of powerful dramas and the support afforded the stars in the productions is excellent. "As a Man Thinks" is a problem play with a moral. Leah Baird has done nothing better in pictures.

This program will continue tomorrow to be followed Saturday by "Love and the Law" and two other screen attractions. Sunday Harry Carey will be seen in "The Ace of the Sixes."

His identity is concealed and all his writing is being done under the finger-print signature, while literary New York hunts almost frantically for some clue to this man whose poetry marks him as perhaps America's greatest living singer.

Sam Loyd Puzzles

The greatest mathematical brain of the century will contribute to the Sunday TRIBUNE when the Sam Loyd Puzzles appear, beginning October 12 and continuing as a Sunday feature. "Our Puzzle Gym," Sam Loyd calls his department. Something for the old and young to crack their brains over will appear in each week's department. While difficult these puzzles are not at all unworkable, as will be shown by the answers that will be printed for each puzzle on the next week following.

Jane Dixon finds that even the blase modistes of New York are shocked at the latest creations of Paris. One returning importer declares American husbands simply won't stand for the newest gowns.

Jack London's "HEARTS OF THREE" will continue to run.

Charles E. Van Loan's "McCLUSKEY'S PRODIGAL" will appear.

"A MATCH FOR THE GOVERNMENT" is a new secret service narrative based on fact.

NOTED WRITER ON POLITICAL THEMES DIES

Al Murphy, dean among newspaper writers about the bay and famous for his political and feature articles, is dead across the bay, passing away at the St. Francis hospital after an illness of only one day. Stricken by illness Tuesday, the veteran writer sank rapidly, dying before Dr. John Rogers and Dr. John Galway, called in the case, were able to aid him.

Murphy had for years been famous as a political writer, and his "Blinker Murphy" stories, published some years ago, achieved national note.

Murphy was 64 years old, and had been in the newspaper business practically all of his life. Starting his career as a printer, he worked on the "case" of the old Alta California, and later, showing an aptitude for writing, went on the editorial staff of the old Call. In 1883 he joined the staff of the Examiner, where he remained thirty-six years, until his death.

Born at Quincy, Mass., the son of Timothy Murphy, a newspaper printer, he came to San Francisco during his early youth, serving an apprenticeship as a printer. For a time he lived in Placerville, thence returning to San Francisco to join the typographical forces of the "Alta."

Murphy is survived by a widow and six children, John, Allen, Edward, George and Paul Murphy and Sister Cecilia of Seattle, as well as two brothers, Henry and J. C. Murphy. Funeral arrangements were being made today.

WIFE DIVORCES CRITICAL SPOUSE

"Please do not come down to breakfast, for you are not good to look upon so early in the morning. But you are no exception, for no woman is beautiful in the early morning."

Thus spoke Frantz Mjellum, son of a Norwegian ship owner, to his bride of three weeks, Mrs. Louise Mjellum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Whitlaw of San Rafael, noted for her beauty, plaintiff against Mjellum for a divorce.

"I am sure his artistic judgment is warped if he tried to recognize that you are always beautiful," commented Judge Van Nostrand, before whom the trial was held in San Francisco. "I award you a decree of divorce."

Mrs. Mjellum said she had made it a point to get up early every morning, so her husband would not have to eat alone. She said she had taken considerable pains with her toilet, believing that many men are driven from home by the frumpiness of their wives.

Thereafter this remark cut so deeply, she said, that she suddenly adopted her husband's conclusion that marriage is a failure, and told him he could pack his personal belongings, because she was through. He did so, she said, with more promptness than politeness, and she went to live with friends at 929 Grove street, while her husband took up his residence at a hotel.

Mjellum was sent to this country by his parents to study shipbuilding methods. From here he will go to China and Japan. Mrs. Mjellum has always been in keen social affairs. They were introduced at the last Mardi Gras ball. Following a whirlwind courtship they were married on June 21 last with a ceremony the court that a property settlement had been made. The amount received by Mrs. Mjellum was not announced, but it is said to be in excess of $50,000.

MAYOR JOHN L. DAVIE; COMMISSIONERS EDWARDS, BACUS, MORSE, SODERBERG; W. R. ALBERGER of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways Company, and L. F. LAYTHAM, President of the Carmen's Union:

Stop the strike! The public of Oakland demands it. Civic government is impeded and the business loss is more than $500,000 daily.

"World Aflame" Is Gripping Film Story Based on Problems of Today

Solution of Industrial Unrest Offered in Timely Picture With Frank Keenan as Star.

By Archie Bell

THEIR cook burned the soup. That doesn't seem a particularly dramatic episode at first thought, but it was the spark that reached the nitroglycerin of general discontent and inefficiency. The inevitable explosion followed. The whole thing, called "The World Aflame," with Frank Keenan playing the principal part, is a film about to be made visible locally, and I have no hesitation in declaring that it is one of the biggest things that has reached us via the celluloid route.

In the first place, it's as timely as the last edition of the newspaper. Secondly, its plot might have been taken from the front page of the newspaper any day. Third, it is entertaining. Fourth, it will make you think and perhaps give you a clearer insight into an insidious poison that is circulating in most unexpected corners of this country and of all the world. Fifth, and most important of all, the authors of the piece and the actors in it had something to say and they said it well. It wasn't a mere case of making "another film."

There's a distant message for you and for me.

There's no dodging that issue. CARSON BURR, a rich man living in a luxurious home with his wife, son and daughter, is surrounded by servants, every one of whom, excepting his valet, who is a sort of hero for the development of sentimental and romantic interest in a love affair with the daughter, proves himself inefficient, slack in his performance of duty, in reality stung with the poison of "every man is as good as any other man—and perhaps a little better."

The cook burns the soup and when it is returned to the kitchen, smashes up things generally and quits the place, compelling the family to go to a restaurant for dinner.

Here they are served by a sneering, no-good waiter, who feels that he is too good for his job and who resents serving his "inferiors."

The family chauffeur leaves the automobile while they are dining and meets his pals for a game, during which robes are stolen from the machine and he is nowhere to be found when wanted.

Inefficiency, no ambition to perform any task that is expected from workers, entirely the wrong attitude of everyone concerned in keeping the wheels of everyday life in motion, drives Burr to the office of the mayor of the city. He announces that he will run in opposition to the incumbent for the position of mayor, his campaign being based entirely upon a promise to give the people a service that they have not been receiving since the hysteria of war seemed to settle in the minds of all men.

There is a lively campaign on both sides, free older career politicians fighting against the new. The new wine and Burr is installed in the chair of the chief executive of the city.

IMMEDIATELY he is pounced upon by all dissatisfied elements because he is a "rich man" and because he is not supposed to be a friend of the laboring class. Even the cook makes violent speeches about how he was "thrown out of his house to starve in the street because I happened to burn his soup."

There are spectacular meetings in a basement, where long-haired revolutionists eloquently plot for "the coming era." They publish a sheet called "The Red Freedom," that advocates the suspension of all activities. One sees thus far a recollection of a problem faced by the mayor of Seattle not long ago.

The day arrives and the mayor is told that not one street car will move. True to schedule the men strike. After due deliberation, the mayor decides that here is the place for him to prove his mettle, so he goes to the car barns and in the midst of a howling brick-throwing mob, he takes one street car around the streets.

Word comes to the crowd of agitators that a car is moving and that the mayor is aboard, so having kidnapped his son, they send him word that they will kill the boy. Despite this threat, the mayor continues to do what he considers his duty and as he steps from the car, word is brought to him that his boy has been shot. This proven to be a false report, but it does not cause him to waver in his determination to give the city efficient service.

Riot follow and it seems that the strikers are winning their point in all departments of city activities.

Word comes to the crowd of agitators that a car is moving and that the mayor is aboard, so having kidnapped his son, they send him word that they will kill the boy. Despite this threat, the mayor continues to do what he considers his duty and as he steps from the car, word is brought to him that his boy has been shot. This proven to be a false report, but it does not cause him to waver in his determination to give the city efficient service.

Up to this point it has been prearranged in the mind of the mayor had not yet found expression. What he is doing was to avoid a halting of the city activities while he was putting his theories to the test.

He summons to his house the rich, the heads of all manufacturing and industry. He makes them a speech about their relations to "labor" that makes them think. They are fathers, some of them, who have had boys killed in the war, or their sons have come home crippled.

"The new order of things has arrived," he declares, "and your sons will have fought in vain unless men like you see and welcome this new order and adapt yourselves to new conditions." He tells them that their laborers must have a financial interest in what they produce. There must be a different relationship between employer and employee than there has been in the past. And finally, for the drama's sake at least, he convinces them that what he says is true. One man admits that he lost $200,000 in a strike at his shoe factory. "How much better if you had divided that $200,000 among your men," says Burr.

There is a labor meeting in progress. "I'm going there tonight and you're going with me," Burr says to his guests. They are reluctant to go, but he drags them along.

The expected scenes follow. Orators are spouting about the abuses of capital. "Capital" arrives in the form of the employers of most of the men in the audience.

By a wonderful speech, the mayor causes both sides to listen. He implores them to "get acquainted." Let them talk over their "differences" instead of being led by men who have only self-interest. Let them plan to work for each other in friendship and let their interests be undivided.

Several camera flashes show this difficult process of coming together, the surprise of the men in finding out that their employers are human beings after all, and the surprise of the employers in finding that they think more of the manhood surrounding them than they knew they did. Several tableaux at the close are convincing that the "new order of things" has arrived, that one of the greatest problems of the present time, has been solved.

ONE can hear that this film will be met by a storm of derisive laughter from certain sources. It will be termed "purely theoretical," merely "the stuff from which plays are made" and "story book drama."

Nevertheless, it has crystallized in attractive form one of the great fundamentals upon which world leaders of thought are now engaged. At least, it is drama that cannot be called "pretty good" or "not very good." It is other tremendous or life piffle. And in these solemn days one cannot speak of so serious a subject by describing it as "a treatment—just a piffle."

For one, I wish that it might be possible for every employer of labor in America to see it. I wish that every worker might see it. The stage, and now on the screen, the film stage, should be a forum for the discussion of all of these vital questions. It is in that very thing for which the film is a plea; getting together for the discussion of mutual interests—getting acquainted.

M. R. KEENAN mounts to a great heroic figure in the film. He acts with a decision and dignity that are surprisingly convincing with such a subject. Even his face looms nobly in the more impressive scenes. He'll not only interest you, but he'll hold you spellbound by his eloquent arguments and the manner in which he puts them over.

He has the assistance of several players, Kathleen Corrigan, Janice Wilson, Clark Marshall, Bert Spottle, Claire du Eroy, Joseph McManus, Hardee Kirkland and Edward Tilton, but it is Frank Keenan who holds the pivotal position and interests throughout the six reels that are employed in telling the story.

The Regal "BANKER" in Black Kid—$11.50

Fine Kidskin is not so well known by men as it deserves to be. Chiefly, perhaps, because so far as men are concerned, Kid has often been considered a "middle aged" leather, and style has been a secondary consideration. The Regal "Banker" is one of those fine straight English model lasts and the Kid in these shoes is of an unusual quality. Altogether an exceptional shoe—and doubly exceptional when you consider its price.

Now—a Comfort Shoe On a Straight Last

SOME DAY, when you feel you can't take another step, drop in and try on a pair of these soft kid boots.

You'll be surprised how easy they are—and how good looking—because this new straight last enables us to give ample room and still preserves the style lines; while there is nothing kinder to the foot than a fine piece of glovey kidskin.

CRACK PITCHERS TO WORK NEXT SUNDAY

Babe Hollis and Bill Steen Will Hook Up at the Lincoln Park Diamond

By EDDIE MURPHY

With last night being the time limit for managers of clubs in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE'S Midwinter League to turn in the names of the players that they will have in uniform for the opening games to be played on cashy lots next Sunday, a lot of work came through the mail for the league secretary last evening. Close to two hundred athletes are ready for the start of the Class A and B leagues and fans are bound to witness some fine amateur and semi-pro games as a result. Many of the fellows ranked as top-notchers in the bushes will be in The TRIBUNE Leagues and it would be no easy job to try and pick out a couple of sure contenders for the pennants in each league.

Every team in the Class A league has a pair of crack pitchers. Some of these pitchers are: Ad. Marchio, Babe Hollis, Bill Steen, Johnny Gillespie, Gene Caldera, Lefty Colborn, Robinson and C. R. Campbell.

STEEN VS. HOLLIS. A month ago Babe Hollis signed with the Halton-Didders and promised to pitch the opening game against the Hal Scott Motors at Alameda next Sunday. A deal was put over that meant the game at San Leandro next Sunday will be free to the fans, as it is coming to them as a result of the game called off. The second inning a couple of weeks ago, and for which no rain checks were given. A win for the Tractors would make it an even break for them with the Halton-Didders. The game will be in four games, so next Sunday morning's game is going to be a real battle, even though it will be free to the fans.

Four games in all will be played in the Class A division of The TRIBUNE league. A couple of new members in midwinter leagues will be the Union Constructors and the Judson Iron Works. Those teams are to furnish the opening game for the fans of Emeryville. The old park formerly used by the Shipbuilders' league has been left to the new members and the diamond put in first-class condition by the Judson Iron Works. Ad. Marchio is understood to have been in the Halton-Didders team, will be in the box for the Judson and Colborn or Robinson will work for the Union Constructors.

GILLESPIE FOR TRACTORS. Gene Caldera will pitch the morning game against the Richmond Dicks for the Tractors, which leaves it to Johnny Gillespie to hurl for the Tractors in the afternoon. The Tractors are to meet the Oakland Navigators No. 50. The Navigators have a nifty lot of young players who are known to the fans. Gene Caldera or "Red" McClain will hurl for the Navigators.

FRUITFUL PARK POPULAR. A park that will probably hold some of the largest attendances at TRIBUNE league games this season will be Fruitvale Recreation park, a couple of years ago the best-known in the city. The park has been taken over the game on the park and entered a fast team in The TRIBUNE league and games will be played there every Sunday until the league comes to a close. Pete Starbuck is the manager of the team and has signed a lot of first-class young tossers to play. Pete thinks that the young fellows are the best and is willing to take a chance in starting with them. Of course, like all the other managers, Pete has to sign a seasoned pitcher. He has Jack Killip, former Oak and who has been pitching fine ball for the Halton-Didders. Killip will pitch against the Crystals next Sunday and will have Pete Ritchie as his battery mate. Herbert McDonald, the young fellow who has hurled for St. Joseph's Sodality team, will be second string pitcher for the Crystals. They have McNally of San Rafael, and Bert "Smiles" Cole listed as their pitchers.

All games in the Class A league will start at 2:30 sharp.

CLASS B BOYS PREPARED. The boys in the Class B league have been ready to go for the past couple of weeks. Contracts for all clubs have been turned in and managers have their line-ups to announce.

The Peacock Autos will start off by meeting the Melrose Merchants at Melrose. The Orpheum Cigars will go to Richmond and play the Richmond Redmen. The Twenty-third Avenue Merchants and Allendale Merchants are anxious to battle each other at the Allendale playgrounds, and the California Cotton Mills team will meet the Elmhurst Merchants at Elmhurst.

J. Malsano reserve umpire for the Class A league, has been appointed by President Fred L. Krumb to umpire the game at Elmhurst between the Cotton Mills and Elmhurst teams in the Class B league, taking the place of John Britton. L. Alameda will officiate at Melrose. L. Madson will officiate at Richmond and M. Castro at Allendale.

GOSSIP of GOLFERS

The California Junior golf championship matches which will be played at Del Monte the latter part of next month will attract many entries.

It is the first recognized championship event ever held in the State for boys and girls. The age eligibility has been set for 16 and under. It has been contended for some time the reason more high class players have not made their appearance on the Pacific Coast is due to the fact that the game among the masses here is comparatively young in the majority of cases, did not get out on the links until recent years. It is contended by experts that the young recruits are learning more rapidly than their developed and aged brothers. If the boys and girls can be interested in the game it is expected that much progress will be made in the development of future champions and first class players.

There are already a number of boys and girls under 16 years of age who are practicing and getting ready for this first juvenile event. One of the favorites to carry off the first trophy is Ashton Stanley of Del Monte, who is 13 years old. Ashton went around the Del Monte first course in 82, which indicates the class of golf he can display. Earl Wetzel, a Los Angeles kid, is another promising youngster who will try to take off the title. There are other boys and girls who will have their admirers and supporters when the field of young stars tee off on Thanksgiving day.

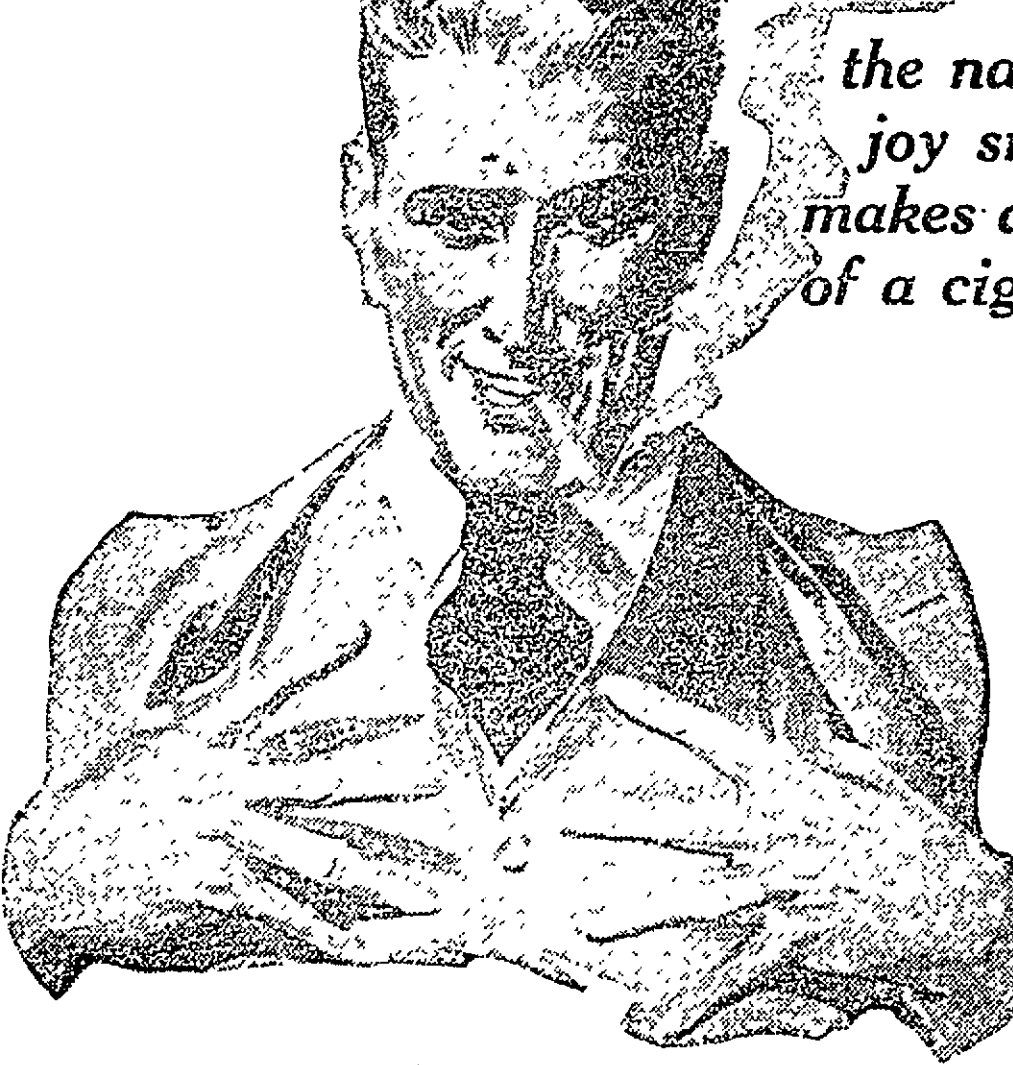

WILL PLAY FOR TITLE. VALLEJO, Oct. 9.—The baseball team from the cruiser Tacoma and destroyer Gamble will meet for a little nine inning battle Sunday to decide the supremacy of the ships now at Mare Island.

The contest will be played at the naval cantonment grounds, and from all accounts a record crowd will be on the sidelines.

John Collins was the batting star of the game. He collected three hits, one a double.

Recently there took place at Johns Hopkins hospital a remarkable operation upon an 11-year-old boy who had not been normal since infancy. The operating surgeon brought to light the fact that there were a number of little cysts or tumor-like swellings pressing upon the child's brain and with patience and painstaking detail carried out his wonder-

Numerous mental patients have since been benefited by an operation on the brain. One 13-year-old patient had been bed-ridden from birth and blind. After the operation on his brain he began to walk and to see, and since improved steadily.

Medical or surgical aid seemed out of the question to the unhappy parents until one day last winter the operating surgeon was summoned to attend a friend of the parents of the afflicted child. The mother, while her baby, was calling upon this friend at the time. When the surgeon noticed the child he asked its age, and remarked that the size of

COLLEGE HIGH BROW STYLED BACK NUMBER

Alice Elliott, Oakland Girl Who Has Achieved Stardom
in Movies, Tells of a Finer
Standard Than Society

"The College high brow is obsolete," says Miss Alice Elliott, the lovely young Oakland girl who has been made leading woman in films, company with a shock to academic circles which has boasted their conservatism.

"Prominent educators made it a favorite pastime to rail at sets of the cinema to attain a high standard, but not one of them suggested a means of betterment," she charges.

Miss Elliott as a slip of a school girl determined that her career would be on the stage. Society bored her, and the easy going, monotonous life of an only daughter in a home of comfort with ramifications in the smart set on both sides the bay and a pedigree which would take her far, palled. Her father is Albert W. Elliott, the prominent attorney.

Her mother wanted to shield her from too rough a contact with the world. Her grandmother, Mrs. George W. Bunnell, a leader in civic work, an early member of the former president of the Oakland Club, and one of the founders of the present playground and probation activities in Alameda county, wondered at this clever, self-reliant young woman who lived beside her.

IN LOVE WITH WORK
Miss Elliott entered the University of California much as other girls. Her four years were marked by her dramatic work. She graduated with honors. Then she calmly announced that she was going on the stage. She did. She played with the Liberty company. Her experiences broadened. Recently she packed her trunk, went down to University City and achieved a stardom.

"I'm in love with my work," declares the young revolutionist, "and all the money in the world could not induce me to return to a useless, inactive life. Just to sit in some movie theater and see one's hard work appreciated by strangers is all the satisfaction I want."

But to return to this collegiate stardom on university and education.

SILENT DRAMA IGNORED
"It was quite out of the realm of university training while I was in college," says Miss Elliott, "to pay the slightest attention to the silent drama. The American university has overlooked a splendid opportunity for advancement of the finer arts by failing in co-operation. The value of a dramatic education has been ignored by the institutions of higher learning. If colleges will realize that a power for advancement of the cinema lies within their walls, they will achieve a great practical good in the realm of art. Recently the University of California has inaugurated a course in dramatic writing, and in a few of the Eastern colleges courses in dramatic expression for silent art are being instituted and pantomime shows presented. It is a hopeful sign.

CONFERES ARE DELIGHTED
"Every person who would achieve the highest success in pictures should have a background of a university course," pronounces the Oakland girl. "It does not mean that one cannot acquire greatness without a college education helps tremendously. Psychology, modern languages and modern literature are the subjects which I chose above all others."

"Every woman should do some useful work," offers Miss Elliott. "The false idea that a girl who works is less in the social scheme than the professional social butterfly has been dispelled by war. The world cannot progress without society, but as a profession it is deadly."

"To have some active mental interest was what I learned at college," the new leading woman recalls. "For three years after I was graduated I did nothing but attend social functions until I could stand it no longer. That is Miss Elliott's reason for starting on her career in the movie world."

HUGO HAASE, GERMAN PARTY LEADER, SHOT

Wounding of Socialist is Said to Be for Personal Revenge
—Hoax is Perpetrated by Bolsheviks to Gain Ends

BERLIN, Wednesday, Oct. 9 (By The Associated Press).—Hugo Haase, leader of the Independent Socialists, was shot today only a quarter of an hour before he expected to make a sensational disclosure of the National Assembly in connection with the government's Baltic policies and the tolerant attitude of Berlin toward the "West Russian anti-Bolshevik government," the establishment of which was the result of a hoax perpetrated by an individual posing as the representative of a New York banking house.

This fact gave currency to a rumor that the attempt against Haase's life had a political origin, but a cross-examination of Voss, his assailant, indicates that he was actuated by motives of personal revenge.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 8 (By The Associated Press).—A group of anti-Bolshevik Russians who had organized a government here to take possession of the Russian territories between the frontiers of Poland, Petrograd and Moscow whenever the fortunes of war should place them in a position to do so, has been hoaxed by an individual, posing as the accredited representative of a New York banking house, into signing a document in which the American banking house agreed to advance to the Russians 200,000,000 marks in return for raw products, commercial concessions, timber lands and mineral rights in various sections of Russia.

The "American agent," calling himself Dr. Moschell, now appears to have been a Bolshevik agent who was interested in endeavoring to establish the active presence in Berlin of an official Russian anti-Bolshevik organization.

Independent socialist leaders are reported to have been working with the Bolshevik representatives in this scheme.

The hoax was discovered by the Russian representative when the promised millions were not forthcoming.

TREATY VOTE IS DELAYED BY DEBATE

Penrose and Watson Look for Settlement Early in November:
the Shanting Discussion
Once More Resumed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—With both Republican and Democratic senators split on the question of amending the German peace treaty, the majority leader, Senator Lodge, the minority leader, Senator Hitchcock, and the majority leader, Senator Penrose, agreed today that there was scant prospect of the Senate voting on the pending Shantung amendment until next week was well advanced.

Despite the impending delay Senator Penrose, Republican of Pennsylvania, clung to his prediction that the treaty would be disposed of "one way or the other" by November 1. Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, who took the same view on Saturday was, however, of the opinion that November 11, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice, would be nearer the mark. Other senators on the Republican side stated they would be surprised if final action were secured by the middle of next month.

Debate on the Shantung amendment, which would restore to China the German control of the Chinese province Japan seized during the war, was to be resumed today with unmistakable indications that it would continue during the rest of the week and probably late next week.

Johnson Flays League Vote Plan Seattle Throng Cheers Senator

SEATTLE, Oct. 9.—"Waves of vocal approval and cries of 'live with you,'" greeted United States Senator William W. Johnson here last night when he confidently predicted to an audience which crowded the Arena, Seattle's largest hall, that the League of Nations covenant, "if accepted, will have annexed to it such reservations as will enable us to govern ourselves as we have governed ourselves in the past."

Dr. Harry Suzzalo, president of the University of Washington introduced Senator Johnson at the meeting held at the Arena. At the second or overflow meeting at a nearby theater, the Senator was introduced by Harry Denton Moore, president of the local League for the Preservation of American Independence. It was estimated that the capacity of the two meeting places was between 3000 and 10,000.

"DELIGHT TO WORLD"

Senator Johnson in his address at the Arena said in part:

The mathematical demonstration recently made to you by President Wilson has been a delight and wonder to the world. He proved to the entire satisfaction of those who bask in the sunlight of power that six equal thirds and two and thirty-two equals one. He showed that the representative of Great Britain at the peace conference with fatuousness of which we would hardly believe Lloyd George capable, insisted vehemently upon the granting to the British empire of six votes to one vote of the United States, although it was perfectly obvious to Lloyd George that the six votes for which he fought so fervently were of no advantage whatsoever. He made it plain that an empty honor had been accorded to Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and the self-governing colony India, and this boon coveted by Great Britain, and eagerly sought by her colonies, they and he knew because he tells us so was of neither consequence, nor value, nor importance.

The President said: "The point to remember is that the energy of the League of Nations resides in the council, not in the assembly, and that in the council there is a perfect equality of votes. That settles that matter."

The difficulty with the explanation of the President is that it wars with the facts. As usual, the facts, the inexorable facts, make the issue with Mr. Wilson.

The President on many occasions asserts that the assembly is a mere debating society and has no actual power, and that the one vote of the United States, by virtue of those provisions of the covenant relating to unanimity equals the six of the British empire.

It is not a mere "debating society" however. It is not a body of impotency and futility. If it were, the league would be an egregious fraud. It would be, under Mr. Wilson's construction, a mere world-governing oligarchy of the five great nations, and the academic and idealistic conception of a great forum to redress the wrongs of the world would be mere sham and pretext and a shabby diplomatic trick.

If Mr. Wilson's conception of the assembly be sound the weak nations of the earth would forever be in subjection, forever on their knees to the organized power of the five great nations. If Mr. Wilson's description of the assembly of the league be correct, instead of securing a self-determination of peoples, of justice to the weak, we would have all the minor nations and all the smaller peoples of this whole earth bound in perpetual shackles to the five great master nations. Liberty would have fled forever from the world and organized tyranny would be perpetually secured upon the throne of power. And Mr. Wilson, as usual, is wrong in his construction of the powers of the assembly. The assembly, so far from being a "debating society" is the reservoir of all the power of the league.

Oscar West, 504 Korbel street, West Oakland, non-union stevedore, was shot early this morning at Second and Townsend streets, San Francisco, when he was attacked by three strike sympathizers. He died at the San Francisco Emergency hospital.

COMPANY OBJECTS TO IMPROVEMENT

Protest was filed today by the California Development Company against the proposed improvement of Oak street from Second to Seventh streets. The company, which owns large blocks of property on the street, holds that income does not justify any expenditures on this thoroughfare, that the property there cannot be leased and that traffic does not demand extensive street improvements.

The protest was referred by Commissioner W. J. Baccus for a report.

Stolen Auto Left on Track; Hit by Train

Thieves took a large touring car belonging to the Fred T. Wood company from Eleventh street and Broadway Sunday night and abandoned the car on the main line Southern Pacific tracks near the foot of Sixty-sixth avenue. It was struck later in the evening by the Overland limited train and dragged for several hundred feet and then dumped into a canal, where it was found this morning, half-submerged in water and the wire wheels and fenders twisted into a shapeless mass.

Before abandoning the car the thieves carried away all the tools, clock, motor-meter, spare tubes and tires, spark plugs, and robe.

U. S. TO CENSOR STRIKE ZONE NEWS

GARY, Ind., Oct. 9.—Conspiracy on news of military activities in the Calumet strike zone, now under martial law, was established today by order of Major General Leonard Wood.

Dispatches regarding raids of armed bands under the direction of military authorities were being submitted to Colonel W. S. Maney, according to Wood's instructions.

General Wood said this step was taken to prevent radical agitators in other parts of the country from learning of moves taken by the government to curb their activities.

THREE AVIATORS KILLED BY FALL

Promotional 'Exams' Postponed a Month

Because of the strike situation, promotional examinations for captains of police and police inspectors have been postponed a month by the Civil Service Board. This was recommended at last night's meeting of the board by Chief of Police J. P. Lynch. The examination schedule now sets the captains' examination for November 15 and the inspectors' for November 22.

Routine business occupied last night's session of the board.

REVELATIONS of a WIFE

ADELE GARRISON

Lillian's voice stopped abruptly. She seemed to be living over again the exciting scene which she had just described to me.

"I was sure she told me all she knew concerning the young officer. For the story of what had happened at the inn I must wait until my wounded rescuer in another room of the hospital was recovered sufficiently to talk.

But there was another side of the story upon which Lillian had not touched, one about which I was consumed with curiosity. I resolved, pettishly that I would wait no longer upon Lillian's modesty.

"Don't fancy I'm going to let you slip this," I said childishly. "I want to know how you happened to be out here so opportunely."

Lillian frowned. It is a trick of her to know well, one she always employs when she is asked to relate anything about her own doings. It is only when Lillian completely forgets herself in a narration, as she had done in describing the wounded officer's dramatic arrival at the hospital, that she inadvertently allows one to catch a glimpse of the initiative and the resourcefulness which is always hers in any emergency.

"There is nothing much to tell," she said.

"MADGE IS SURPRISED."

I caught her hand and drew her down to me.

"Surely you aren't going to make me ill again with baffled curiosity?" I pleaded whimsically.

She kissed me, her face clearing.

"There's no resisting you, you persistent child," she said, relenting. "But there truly isn't much to tell. You remember I told you that we were keeping a strict watch over that German who tried to enter my library, whose hand you scarred with carbolic acid?"

"But—I stammered—"I thought he had been captured and shut up upon that night he followed Allen Drake and me to Jamaica. I saw the doctor secure him."

"Captured, yes, but shut up only for a few hours," Lillian returned. "He is too useful to our plans to remain shut up. When he gets too obstreperous we thwart him and put him out of the way until that particular plan of his has been spoiled. Then we let him go again, but always guarded, although he doesn't know it. And among his most confidential pals are trusted fellows of our own, one of them, about the cleverest chaps we have. The man with the scarred hand doesn't send or receive a message or perform the simplest act without this man knowing it."

"Ah!" The exclamation broke from me. I recalled again Ernest's declaration that he had sent word of my presence at the inn to a man who was "exceedingly anxious to see me," who "had a score to settle with me."

"Did you see him at all?" Lillian demanded anxiously. "Was he the man responsible for that shot I always heard any report as yet from our man who was shadowing him, so I don't know whether he has managed to elude us or not."

"I don't think he was the man at all, at least I didn't see him," I replied. "And the shot which put me out of commission—as Dicky would say—was fired by the man who was killed."

"About whom you are going to tell me when I have satisfied your insatiable curiosity," Lillian retorted, smiling.

"Our system works very smoothly," she went on, so that it couldn't have been but a few minutes after the man with the scarred hand received a message from the inn that I had a copy of it, as I receive copies

For Bride and Bridesmaid

Autumn weddings are bringing out many picturesque bridal gowns, and equally lovely frocks for the bridesmaid or the matron of honor. Lace plays a conspicuous part in all bridal processions this season.

A lovely bridal gown shows a kimono bodice of Brussels point lace. Imitation laces also may be substituted for the more expensive real mesh. The bodice is draped with Greeklike simplicity. The beautiful drapery of the skirt enhances the simple loveliness of the satin, and is hung so as to pass upwards beneath the belt, from which two long ends emerge at the top and appear as a continuation of the skirt drapery.

The lace veil is held across the forehead by a fillet of orange blossoms that thickens into bunches of the flowers over the ears.

This bride's gown is soft cream lace combined with pink charming mouse satin and Georgette crepe. It is given individuality by the trimming of deep chenille fringe that hangs from the lace tulle and sleeves. The satin forms the camisole lining and drop skirt and Georgette crepe is used for the vestee and overskirt. The soft girlette is strapped with old blue ribbon. The picture hat is pink velvet trimmed with pink feathers.

of all his letters, wires and 'phones. "Have eased the pigeon you lost, it ran." She just flew in.

"The thing came by messenger, evidently having been telephoned to some one else first for safety. There was no clue to the place from which it had been sent, but the man immediately went to the Long Island station.

"Of course, as soon as I received the copy of the message I dashed down to the station myself, but he had already gone. So there was nothing else to do but to go to your house and to find out where you had gone. There was certain the message meant you, and you can imagine how desperate I was when I found out that you had started away on a 'flying tour.'

"It seemed a hopeless proposition to trace you, but something seemed to tell me to try the hospital first. I suppose because there was nothing else to try. Your mother-in-law—who is a brick, bless her!—had Katie pack up some things of yours

CHEER A BROTHER ON HIS WAY.

Cheer a brother on his way
Have a kindly word to say:
Wish him luck and send him on
'Tis kind of you when he's gone.
If you like him, tell him so,
It will help him just to know
That you're with him, through and through,
In the task he has to do.

Look him in the eye and say
In a manly sort of way
All that's in your heart and mind.
Many a day he'll look behind
And remember all you've said
An' he'll bravely march ahead.
He'll fight on with courage grim
Knowin' you have faith in him.

Strength by man is seldom shown
When he has to stand alone;
None so weak, whoever he be,
As the man who cannot see
Friendly faces in the throng
Gladly cheering him along.
He is prey to quick despair
Who has nobody to care.

Cheer a brother on his way,
Have a kindly word to say.
He'll go whistlin' down the road
Heedless of the heavy load
That he's bearin' if he knows
You are with him in his woes.
He'll fight hard in troubled days
To be worthy of your praise.

Winifred Black's Column

She was all in white—soft white, that clings, and is very becoming and expensive. White hat, white shoes, white silk stockings, white veil, white gloves and a smart, simple, darling, little white frock.

She was pretty, too, or I think she was—in spite of her a b s u r d white liquid on her face and it took out the expression and made her look like a beautiful marble statue stepped down from her pedestal and dressed in modern clothes.

Her hair was beautifully done—not just twisted up carelessly, but done smartly and in the latest mode. However, she was not a lady and even the very elevator boy knew it the minute he looked at her.

To begin with, an older woman, quite palpably older, with white hair, was standing on the elevator with her, and when the door opened the woman in white stepped ahead of the older woman and pushed her way into the elevator without so much as a "pardon" or a "my dear."

Once in the elevator she began to talk about her own personal affairs. Oh, very personal affairs, indeed, and she spoke to the woman who was with her in such a loud voice that everyone in the elevator could hear every word she said. And while she was talking, she looked not at the woman to whom she was supposed to be speaking, but at everyone else in the elevator, as if she wanted to see whether they were looking at her or not and what they thought of her, and her clothes, and her hair, and the way she rolled her eyes and how she moved her lips to show the dimples—a very little dimple, indeed, but still a dimple.

In the fourth place, when a lame man tried to get out on the floor and was a little awkward about it, this woman who was not a lady, laughed.

And when a peculiar looking woman turned her face away from her, as if she was ashamed of her face, and left the impression he was making, which was quite contrary to the one he thought he was making.

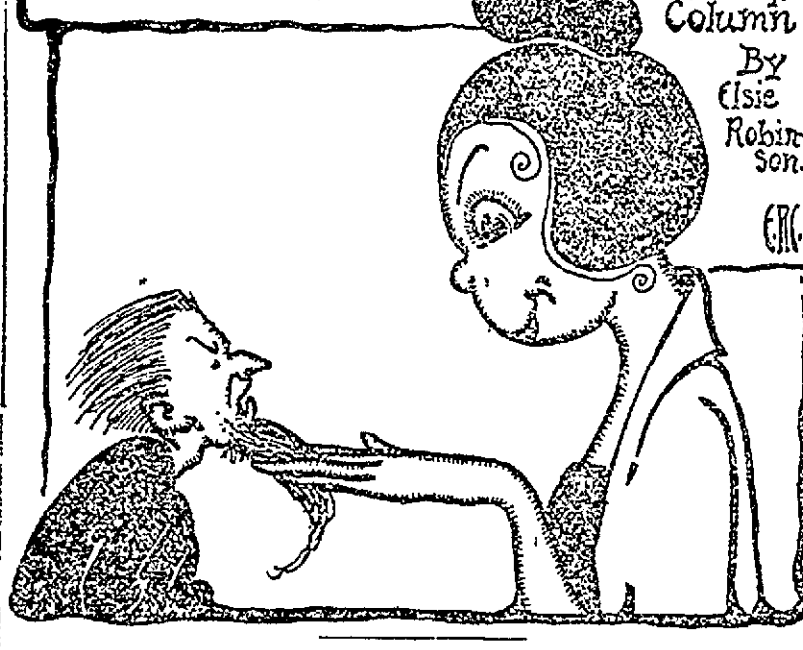

I wonder if it would have done any good.

I saw him afterward in the lobby—he seemed to know a good many people—and every time he saw some one he knew he put his hand on them in some way or other.

Poor fellow! He had rather a kind face, too, and clever in his way. I felt like sending someone to take him out of the corner somewhere, and tell him a few plain, kindly truths about the impression he was making, which was quite contrary to the one he thought he was making.

I wonder if it would have done any good.

LIFE is a SUCCESSION of WALLOPS. But any wallop will shrivel up like a dried oyster if you have the nerve to go up and pull its chin whiskers.

Do you recognize this? "I don't know how you STAND it," says she. "I just couldn't stand it, that's all. But then—I always was more sensitive than most folks. All our family's that way." "About it?" says I. "Oh! I dunno—but I know I couldn't stand it. Why—well, I just COULDN'T and WOULD-N'T."

No, I don't remember friends, what it was that the little lady "couldn't and wouldn't stand"—and she really doesn't matter. The point is that what she was saying is one of the most popular of human beliefs—and one of the SILLIEST, as any real person with a 100 per cent record in experience will certify.

TAKE IT FROM ME, SISTER, YOU CAN AND WILL STAND ANYTHING IF YOU HAVE TO! This idea that some of us have to have life pasteurized and sterilized and fumigated and sealed in a vacuum before it's ready for our use is ALL BUNKUM. When it comes to right down to having their corns stepped on by the Stevedore and Percy the Plutocrat are exactly in the same class—and their life "stand it," because they have to.

Life is a succession of wallops. What hits you has hit some one else before and will hit some one else after. The only difference is the wrist that friend Neighbor gets will land on you sooner or later—never worry. Or it's equally valent. And the chances are that it won't knock you over any more

GAIL'S BEDTIME STORY

"How soon are we going to have some pumpkin pie, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggly Longears of his muskrat lady housekeeper one morning.

"It's a little early for pumpkin pie," Miss Fuzzy Wuzzz answered, she cleared away the breakfast dishes and prepared to sweep the hollow stump bungalow. "If you would get me a squash, though, I could make you a pie from that."

"Oh, yes, that's just what I'm going to do," Uncle Wiggly said. "Well, I'll hop right along and see if I can find one. When will it be time for pumpkin pie, Nurse Jane?"

"About Halloween," she answered. "But I think you'll like the squash kind almost as well."

"I'm sure to if you bake it," spoke the bunnny gentleman, with a low and polite bow of his tail, and he had soon he was hopping away over the fields and through the woods to Grandfather Goosey Gander's farm, where the squash vines grew.

Grandpa Goosey was very glad to see Uncle Wiggly, and wanted the rabbit gentleman to stay and have lunch with him. But the bunnny said:

"I had better hurry home to Nurse Jane with the squash for pie. When I have taken that to her I'll come back and see you."

"Please do," begged Grandpa Goosey, and he gave his rabbit gentleman a friendly wave of the largest green squashes in the garden. A squash is not like a pumpkin, you see, it is green instead of being yellow.

"Will you be able to carry it, Uncle Wiggly?" asked Grandpa Goosey as the bunnny took the squash in his paws. It was nearly as large as a watermelon.

"Oh, yes, it's all right," the bunnny answered. "See you later—good-by!" And away he hopped with the squash.

Uncle Wiggly was skipping over a fallen log, when he saw what happened to drop the squash. Down it went on the ground, ker-plunk!

"Oh, dear!" thought the bunnny rabbit. "Now I have done it! The squash will be broken and spilt and spoiled!"

But the squash just fell in a pile of stones, bounced off them on a sharp, jagged stump, rolled into a round, round bush, rolled again, and then came to a stop, waiting for Uncle Wiggly to pick it up.

"Why, it isn't hurt a bit!" exclaimed the bunnny, as he reached the squash. "It must be much harder than I thought it was. I'll go and pick it up and not even get bruised. This is some squash!"

He picked it up and carried it a little farther. Just as he reached the top of a big, steep hill the bunnny tripped and dropped the squash again.

Down it rolled, head over heels, bumping bump and plunk-o it went! Right against a big rock.

"Oh, now it is surely spoiled!" thought Uncle Wiggly. "No squash pie for me!"

But when he ran down to the squash, he was resting on a pile of leaves and not hurt in the least. "Well, that squash is certainly hard," spoke the bunnny. "I don't see how Nurse Jane is ever going to make that into a pie. I guess I'd better wait for Halloween and pumpkin time."

Still Uncle Wiggly had promised the muskrat lady to bring her a squash, and he had to do it. So he picked it up, and he took it home, and he tucked it under his paw, once more he started off.

"I hope I have no more accidents," said the bunnny to himself, but he had no gone more than five hops and half a skip before, at once, something jumped out from behind a tree and stood on the path in the woods right in front of Uncle Wiggly.

"Hold on! Where are you going?" asked a rough voice, and there stood the bad old Skuddlemaagon.

"I—I am going home, if you please," answered the rabbit gentleman.

"Well, I don't please, and you're not going home," snapped the Skuddlemaagon. "You're coming with me to my den!"

"What for?" asked Mr. Longears, though full well he knew.

"So I can bite some off your ears!" cried the Skuddlemaagon. "What have you there?" he asked.

"Squash—pie," answered the bunnny. But he was feeling so bad, that his voice trembled, and he sort of whispered in the middle, so all that the Skuddlemaagon heard were the words—

"Squash—pie!"

"Oh, ho! Squash pie, eh?" spoke the bad chap. "Well, hand that over first! Afterward we'll see about your source. Hand me that squash pie. Throw it here!" he cried, rough like and derogatory.

Uncle Wiggly thought quickly. He remembered how tough the squash was—almost like the Skuddlemaagon. Then raising the green vegetable, which the bad chap thought was a soft pie, the bunnny threw it straight at the unpleasant creature.

"Burr! Crack!" went the squash on the end of the Skuddlemaagon's nose! Then the squash bounced off, hit the ground, bounced up again and was going to bang the bad chap a second time, when the Skuddlemaagon cried:

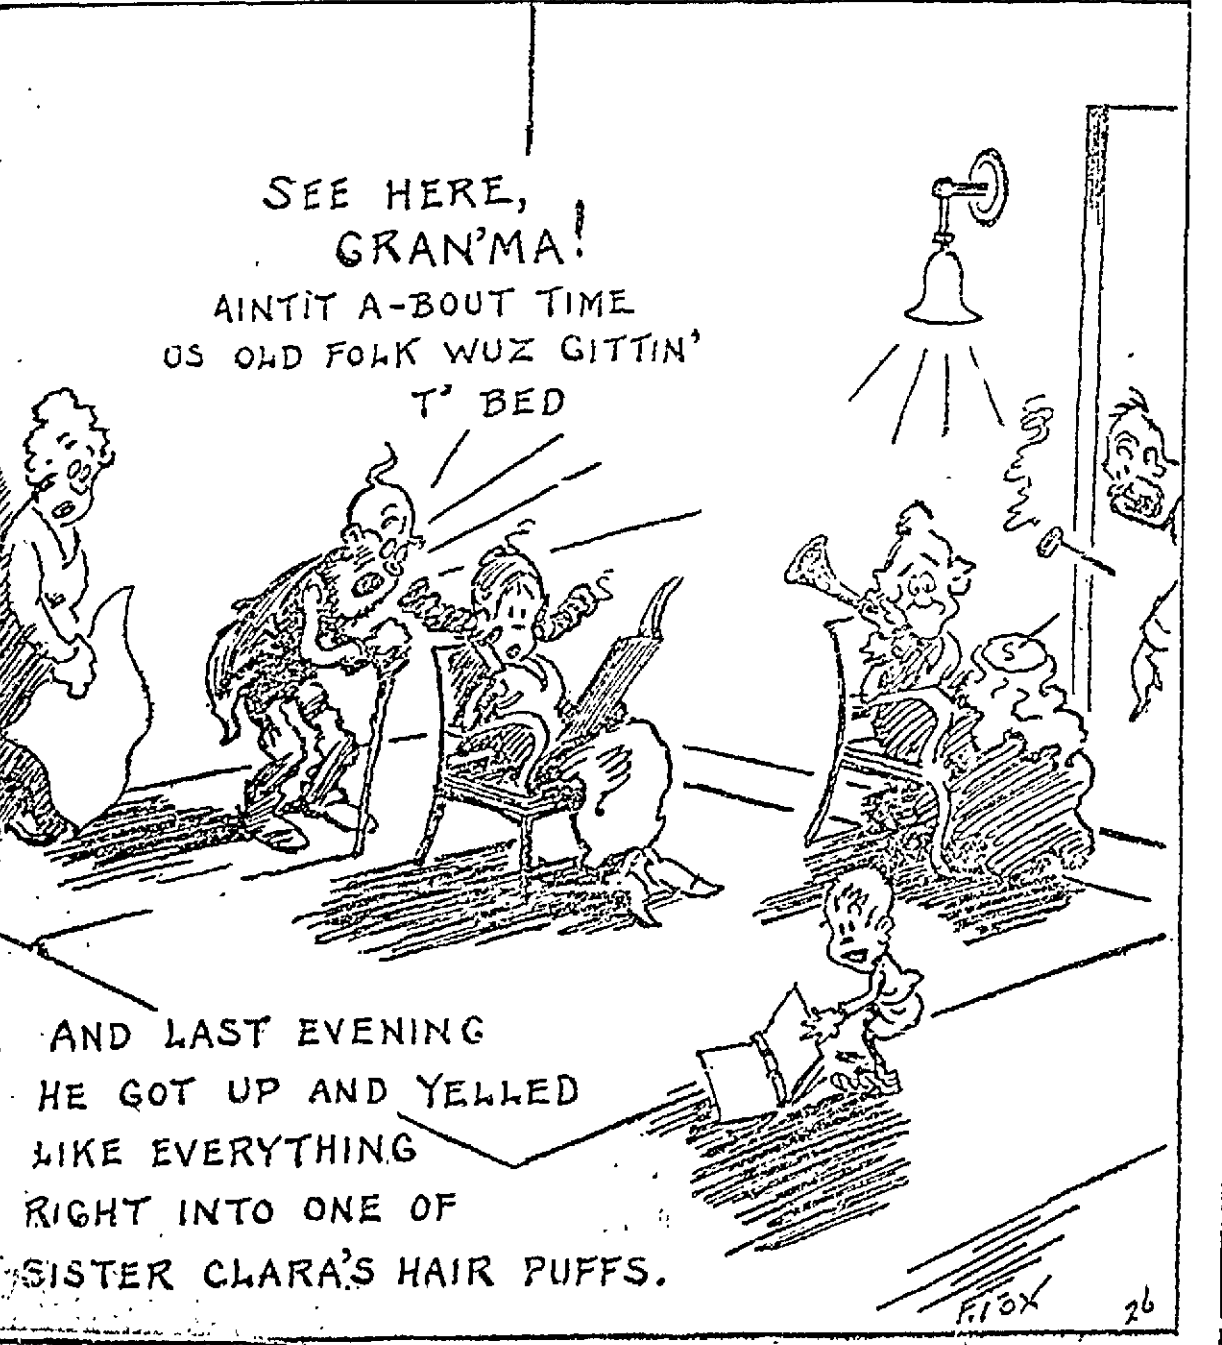

"O, no; you don't! Once is enough for me! I don't like squash pie as much as I thought I would! And, holding his nose with one hand, he hurried Uncle Wiggly at all.

The bunnny picked up the squash which was only scratched a little, and took it to Nurse Jane. She opened it with the axe, and made inside part nice and soft, and made a most delicious pie with molasses. So that is the story of the squash. It teaches us that even onions may be of some use in this world.

The strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," sung in an excellent Italian translation, can now be heard throughout Italy. A year ago the song was a little known foreigner, and then "Today it is pure"—the traditional music of the people. The visitor hears it sung by peasants in remote parts of Calabria. It is a part of the exercises in the schools.

Does he have to be within a certain age limit? Does the secret service agent who travels the country receive more pay than the one who remains in Washington, D. C., as a bodyguard for the President? Are there men placed in the large cities of the United States to whom the agents can report? Is there an assistant to the chief of the secret service? Would the assistant receive more pay than the agent who travels? Can a man of the secret service force resign at any time?—D. G. Gustafson.

Only part of these questions can be answered, due to secret service restrictions. The pay is not fixed. Operatives are appointed by the secretary of the treasury after a thorough examination. There are no special qualifications. The applicant must be under 40 years of age. With regard to the other questions, special situations govern cases and no definite answers can be given.

EDITOR THE TRIBUNE: I know an Oakland man who has spent five years trying to perfect a perpetual motion machine and he still believes he has the secret. I try to convince him otherwise, but he won't listen. Can you give me the scientific reason why perpetual motion is impossible?

Perpetual motion will never be possible unless someone discovers a way to overcome the law of gravitation and also the certainty that materials will eventually wear out. Many men have tried to make a machine that would keep on moving forever without the application of any power, the consumption of fuel within itself, the fall of weights or the unwinding of a spring; such a machine would be absolutely impossible, although many people have been fooled into investing money in machines that appeared to have this power within themselves.

CINEMA CLOSE-UPS

Eugene Walter, whose drama, "The Challenge," is now running at the Selwyn Theatre in New York, and who is known widely as the author of "The Fastest Way," "Paid in Full," "The Wolf," "Fine Feathers," and "The Knife," left New York Saturday to associate himself for an indefinite period with the Goldwyn forces at Culver City, Cal.

Over 60 per cent of the workers in the Philadelphia candy factories are women.

In making a survey of bakeries in the District of Columbia recently the investigation and inspection service discovered many women working in bakeries on a basis of equal opportunity and equal pay with men. The District of Columbia bakeries, as a rule, are working under an agreement with the bakery workers' union, which makes no discrimination on account of sex. While only one full-fledged journeyman baker was reported, many bakers' helpers were found at work with equal pay for equal work in the semi-skilled occupations. The regular union hours are eight per day, six days per week.

It is a most interesting development of war conditions which forced hitherto conservative institutions to accept women internes and residents."

Cancer Responds to Sing Herb Treatments

In the treatment of cancerous growths and tumors, the use of Chinese herbs has accomplished wonderful results.

In using these herbs both external and internal applications are employed—one serving to draw out inflammation and the diseased tissue, and the other purging the entire system of the poison resulting from the cancer.

Anyone desiring to secure information as to what the Sing Herb Specialists have to say, can obtain interesting cases of this nature are invited to consult them.

FACTS

We have our books the names and addresses of all the people who have been cured of cancerous growths and tumors by the use of Chinese herbs. These persons were specially selected by our famous FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT.

On March 11, 1918, and on May 8, 1919, several persons testified in the Public Health Court that they have had permanent results by the use of Fong Wan's Chinese Herb Treatment for cancerous growths.

PRODUCTIVITY,
WORLD'S NEED,
SAYS HOOVER

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—There are ample supplies of the most essential food commodities to feed the world until the next harvest, but there must be an increase in industrial productivity and a readjustment of industrial relations generally if a terrible era of bloodshed is to be avoided, Herbert C. Hoover told a gathering at the Commercial club today.

"The delay in peace, particularly in Europe, has delayed the import of raw materials," Mr. Hoover said. "There is also the large factor of the necessity for economic readjustment of wages in the endeavor to meet the rise in prices within the various circles of production, money and credit during the war."

PRODUCTIVITY LOW. "Industrial productivity" has reached so low an ebb that nothing but political, moral and economic chaos, finally interpreting itself in loss of life on a scale hitherto undreamed of, is upon us, unless constructive measures can be set up by which the world is to be returned to a normal state."

"The economic impulse of the French and other revolutions of the last century was the better division of the land. The economic impulse of the revolution of the last two years has been the better division of industrial production."

PEACE FIRST STEP. "There will be no use of tears for rising prices if our productivity remains at its present level for rising prices will simply be the visualization of insufficient production."

The first step in the solution of world problems is peace, Mr. Hoover said.

The deadened interest of the worker brought about by specialization in industry and the destruction of the old intimacy between employer and employee must be revived through solution of deeper than strikes, lockouts, arbitrations and other devices for ending industrial strife, Hoover said.

INDICTED FOR EXTORTION. (TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 9.—James A. Reed, deputy collector at Aberdeen, Wash., recently arrested on a charge of using his office for extortion, was indicted on seven separate counts by a federal grand jury here.

Why Stay Fat?
You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. However, in Marmola Prescription Tablets, all these difficulties are overcome. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cleanliness. A large case is sold by druggists at $1.00, if preferable, they can be obtained by sending three direct to the Marmola Co., 333 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this you have no excuse for being too fat, but can reduce two, three or four pounds a week without loss of fat or other effects.—Advertisement.

Fire Prevention Day Is Observed
Chief Enumerates Chief Dangers

Fire Chief Elliott Whitehead today issued a statement, calling to the general public of Oakland to use every precaution for the protection of public and private property from fire.

In conjunction with the spirit of today, which is "Fire Prevention Day," in Oakland, Fire Chief Whitehead lays particular stress on the fire hazards created by unsecured conditions. Home-owners are not so calm and composed and are inclined to be a little more careless than in normal times, said Chief Whitehead.

The following statement was issued: "The great Chicago fire, one of the most disastrous in the history of the nation, occurred on October 9, 1871. The fire preventionists throughout the United States have united upon making the anniversary of that fire the occasion of teaching the people the truths concerning the annual fire waste of the nation, the large part of which arises through carelessness and is hence preventable, and how this annual loss may be overcome and reduced to a minimum."

PROPERTY LOSS. "The first point to consider is the volume of this waste, which amounts to $250,000,000 a year and during 1915 reached the appalling figure of $317,000,000."

"But worse than this is the casualty list which accompanies this fire waste—ten thousand people, principally women and children, are burned to death every year and 20,000 maimed and injured. Are not these facts sufficient to send a thrill of horror through every heart here? Are not these the acts of a dastardly foe whose deeds of devastation and death should arouse us to a communal co-operation in the full determination to conquer this enemy and rid the people of this burdensome oppression?"

Here is a partial list, each one an evidence of some form of carelessness, stupidity and folly: Matches placed where children can reach them.

Carelessness on the part of smokers, who fail to stamp out or extinguish every spark of fire at the end of the cigar or cigarette before casting it aside.

Piles of rubbish and litter allowed to accumulate.

Unclean chimneys, outhouses, basements, attics, closets, front and back yards and alleys.

Stoves placed too near wooden partitions or wood boxes placed too near the stoves.

Greasy and oily rags and polishing cloths thrown carelessly aside to generate spontaneous combustion instead of being safeguarded in a metal can.

Failure to disconnect or turn off the current when through with the electric pressing iron or other electrical devices.

Overheated and overcrowded stoves.

The careless use of gasoline and coal oil.

COMPARED WITH WAR.

This country did gloriously during the war. Cheerfully and loyally you gave your sons and brothers to conquer the enemy across the seas, and contributed abundantly of your material wealth to meet the heavy expenses of the war.

Here we have a great enemy at home—the nations' preventable fire waste. Friends, give me more things for your country's good. Give up your careless habits where the danger of fire is involved. Find out the many things that cause fires, then inspect your own homes and offices and shops, and see if any of these things that have caused a fire elsewhere exist around your premises. If you find them, remove them at once. The lives of your loved ones and the safety of your home may depend upon your speedy action.

CONDITIONS IN

FIRST AID TO
COW BY TRAIN
CREW FUTILE

ALAMEDA, Oct. 9.—A Southern Pacific ferry train on the Alameda loop hit a cow which strolled on the tracks at Encinal and High. This is the first cow killed by an Alameda train since the days when Alameda had more cow trails than paved streets.

U. C. Man Urges Eastbay Unity
Strike Is Cited to Prove Stand

BERKELEY, Oct. 9.—That a governmental union of the communities of the Eastbay will be necessary in order to properly handle the present traction strike is the opinion of Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of California.

Scoring people who place unionism before their duty to act as Americans, Professor Reed stated today that unless the power of the community was supreme, and unless the municipal governments of the bay cities could exercise power to compel the respect of the rights of the community as a whole, the present economical and social crisis would end in the greatest smash in history.

"Because no one of the Eastbay cities has the territorial jurisdiction to enforce its decisions upon the entire traction system, the cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda must join in some sort of governmental union, either a public utilities district or a consolidated city and county government, if they wish to cope with the present strike situation," said Reed.

PLACING RESPONSIBILITY. "Under the existing plan, the only action possible must come from the combined councils of the three cities, meeting in conference, to appoint a committee of prominent citizens who may appeal to the public spirit of fair play in endeavoring to settle the strike. In this way the responsibility for the rioting and unlawful occurrences could be placed upon the faction which refuses the advice and orders of the committee. Every American should prepare to face the existing crisis in the true American spirit, and it is only in this manner that the greatest smash in history may be 'eased off' and possibly averted."

"As for the car strike, the power of the community should be asserted to put an end to all such disturbances which punish the public rather than those people who begin and carry on the dispute."

Touching upon the same matter, Prof. W. A. Merrill warned the college students not to let prejudice influence their decision upon the strike situation.

Professor Merrill legally justified the failure of the company to successfully operate their cars in the fact that the city of Oakland had been unable to prevent the rioting and anarchy which made it impossible for the company to run its lines.

"There will be no danger of forfeiture of the traction company's franchise so long as the peace of the community cannot be maintained for it is a maxim of law that the company cannot be held to perform the impossible."

Mind Reader Is "Thief Suspect"

BERKELEY, Oct. 9.—The bright, red-haired woman who confessed mind-reading powers and furnished the clerk in J. F. Hink & Son's store with an hour's entertainment yesterday, was for herself confirmation and the suspicion that she knows the whereabouts of a $14.40 pair of shoes belonging to Mrs. Ethel Knerin. The gorgeously haired woman in search of a birthday book was joyously hailed by the clerks. She staged an impromptu demonstration of her ability to delve into past, present and future. Mrs. Knerin, who had expended her fortune on the winter footwear, joined the audience, placing her package aside on the counter. The shoes he unwrapped coincident with the disappearance of the entertaining shopper, who in addition to her flaming hair is described as wearing a long gray cape and high brown hat suggesting a jockey can.

G. W. FISHER,
PIONEER, ENDS
HIS OWN LIFE

G. W. Fisher, a pioneer in Alameda county and one of the most prominent residents of Oakland in the early days, shot himself through the head last night, at the Hillside Sanitarium where he was a patient, dying a few minutes later. A fortnight ago Fisher entered the Fourth Avenue Hospital as a patient. His condition was not at any time serious and attendants claim that he was always apparently cheerful.

It was believed that his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Oscar de Bretville, formerly Maude Lillian Berry, the actress, was to have visited him last night. The shooting occurred at 10 o'clock following her failure to arrive at the sanitarium. The shot passed through Fisher's head, wounding its way through two adjoining rooms and barely missing their occupants.

Fisher was the founder of the Fisher Lumber Company. He was said to be wealthy years ago. His home has been made at Twelfth avenue and East Twelfth street.

Honest Advertising

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public, and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher.

Is individual judgment best for your estate?

—or would it be better handled by the combined judgment of several?

The individual has a limited experience in matters of Trust—one sided judgment and divided attention.

In contrast, this TRUST DEPARTMENT has the advantage of broad experience—familiarity with the law governing trust affairs and every facility to handle detail.

You should therefore give the question of whom to appoint Executor and Trustee of your estate, serious consideration.
